A conference with focus on the role of the Pedagogue

The Pedagogical 'Space in between'

For the third time, Lidingö Utbildningscentrum/Lidingö Folkhögskola organizes a conference where you, who are interested in pedagogical questions within the school, church, social work area (others are also welcome) have the opportunity to explore the role of the pedagogue in learning processes through creative approaches.

Why the 'Space in between'?

When people come together, there is a 'space in between', a space that gives room for new ideas and new insights.

It is in this gap - a seemingly insignificant between-space, as life becomes visible. In a pause, a glance, a smile. The unimportant space suddenly becomes important. This space is unpredictable and goes beyond limits.

Between-spaces occur in all kinds of meetings, with yourself and others, between cultures, between body and mind, movement and rest, faith and science - an area which offers the opportunity to shape and experience something new!

The Challenge for the pedagogue!

We live in a global world. We travel like never before both physically and virtually and we are forced to deal with much information simultaneously. Global relocation with cultural influences from the world enriches our lives but can also create tension and alienation.

To be young today, in a world full of possibilities, can be both exciting and create anxiety. The massive flow of information is often fragmented and there's little time for analysis and a deeper understanding. Former values and norms are no longer applicable on current situation.

What is true today doesn't seem to be true tomorrow? In the process of orientation, there is a need to find ways of dealing with facts, feelings and crises and how can I, as a pedagogue, meet these needs?

We are all challenged to search several methods in the pedagogical work by using all senses of the body when learning, where experience is the starting point for knowledge, insights, understanding and development.

We call it X-pedagogik!

There are at least four X:es to consider;
eXperience - as a starting point for reflexion and analyses

eXistential - the vital questions of life as driving force for learning eXperimental - testing and risk-taking, creativity and crossover as ways of searching for knowledge and truth

eXpressive - the need to authentically express and form our lives and our knowledge with various languages

The X in the 'space between'

The X is the unknown 'between space' where there are no ready answers but a space where we all are invited to meet and learn from each other, to explore the unknown and to express our lives.

X can be many things and we think the existential questions are very essential in the process of identity as well as the need to experiment and to take risks in the search for knowledge

A theme is there for each day!

Thursday
The playful 'space in between',

Friday
The 'between-space' of knowledge,

Saturday
The 'Between-spaces' of life.

We will use English as a workingtool during the conference. The methods are subordinated the themes and the participants will be divided into different groups and work in a learning process together.

Welcome to Sommarakademin 2011!
